

Dear FCC,

After reading this petition as well as others relating to the removal of the code requirement in the amateur service, I find that the ARRL petition as it stands would be the most sensible proposal offered. While it allows for a true entry level license that includes the use of the HF bands, it also maintains the tradition of Amateur radio by retaining the CW requirement at the highest level. In my opinion this will spur significant interest in the service, which many people feel is desperately needed.
